Cultural Caravan TV proudly presents Part 2 of an encore episode of informative, insightful, and educational episodes with art historian and activist, Dr. Rosalind Robinson Jeffries. In Part 2 of this episode, she will focus on ancient art and culture of the Dogon people of Mali, West Africa.

The Dogon are an extraordinary group of people from Mali, West Africa. They have baffled Nasa astronauts and well known rocket scientists around the world with their sophisticated and advanced knowledge of the universe. The Dogon are believed to be of Egyptian decent fleeing religious persecution and their astronomical lore goes back thousands of years to 3200 BC. The Dogon star, which scientists call Sirius B, wasn't even photographed until it was done by a large telescope in 1970. How did the Dogon gain this knowledge thousands of years ago without any known ancient telescopes yet to be found. Explore this fascinating culture through art with Dr. Jeffries.

This episode can be seen on Sunday, December 21 from 5:30pm to 6pm on NYC-Life Channel 25 or Channel 22 for Cablevision subscribers. On NYC Life, Cultural Caravan TV can be seen throughout the five boroughs of New York, Long Island, Westchester County as well as in parts of New Jersey and Connecticut via on-air broadcasts, cable, and satellite stations.
