Cultural Caravan TV presents Part 2 of an informative presentation on Post traumatic Slave Disorder- Solutions for Community Empowerment with Dr. Patricia A. Newton, M.D, MPH, M.A. Dr. Newton. is the Chief Executive Office and Medical Director, and past President of the Black Psychiatrists of America (BPA). She served on the academic faculty for over sixteen years at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine while becoming the first female chairperson of the Department of Psychiatry at Provident Hospital (Baltimore, MD). Dr. Newton has won many awards and citations including Essence Magazine's "Woman of the Year in Health & Medicine. She has worked internationally with psychiatrists and other health care providers in Africa, South America, the Caribbean as well as here in the USA, pioneering techniques for the chronic mentally ill and cultural competency relative to culturally competent mental health delivery globally in HIV/AIDS. Her innovations include culturally competent holistic treatment in chemical dependency and prevention having her work embraced internationally in Africa, the Caribbean and in Great Britain with a community based clinic named in her honor there. Dr. Newton is an internationally acclaimed lecturer and published author of several articles and books. We invite you to tune in on Sunday, February 21 at 5:30pm on Channel 25 or 22 on NYC-Life .

NYC Life (Channel 25 or Channel 22) can be seen on-air, cable, and satellite throughout the five boroughs, Long Island, Westchester.
